

ONLINE TRAINING ON DEAF-BLINDNESS

The North Dakota Dual Sensory Project is proud to announce the SPRING 2021 offerings of courses from the Open Hands, Open Access (OHOA) modules. These online training modules were developed by the National Center on Deaf-Blindness (NCDB) and are designed to provide training about various aspects of deaf-blindness education and support. These fully online courses provide practical strategies for educating children and youth with deaf-blindness and other disabilities.

WHO: Teachers, related services personnel, early interventionists, and other educational staff are invited to participate in the online courses which are developed from the list of 27 OHOA modules. The courses will be taught by ND Dual Sensory Project staff and consultants. Each course is 1 graduate credit.
